Donald Beaugards Over the Mesas. This was exhibited simultaneously at the Utah Art Institute. Vermont building, with three other beautiful pictures from his brush. This work brought him the annual prize and established his standing among our best painters. Donald Beaugard is the son of N. J. Beaugard, of Fillmore. Utah, and was born in 1885. He is strong in conception. He understands the principle of domination and elimination--that one idea should dominate and all that tends to strengthen that idea may be introduced but detail attracting attention from that idea must be left out. Detail may tickle the eye, but it is a matter of persistent effort not conception. Mr. Beaugards best quality is a big broad treatment. and though he is enthusiastic over color. he does not appeal to the vulgar taste. Others may become vague in seeking to secure tonal qualities....
